LAUSCHE GETS SENATE OKAY ON PROGRAM

Tools For Gambling War Get Partial Boost; Senate Conveyor Bill Moves

COLUMBUS, May 5—(AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche had senate committee okay today for half the legislation he asked to war on commercial gambling in Ohio.

The judiciary committee recommended passage Wednesday night of a bill permitting the governor to seek padlocking of gambling joints local officials fail to close. The vote on the measure by Sen. William H. Daugherty (D-Columbiana) was 6-0.

The bill would allow the governor to order the attorney general to bring padlock proceedings if prosecutors or local law enforcement officers failed to act.

Voting the measure out were Sens. Evan P. Ford (D-Franklin), Margaret A. Mahoney (D-Cuyahoga), Maurice A. Niehaus (D-Hamilton), Edwin F. Sawicki (D-Cuyahoga), Howard M. Metzger (D-Cuyahoga) and Richard A. Wilmer (D-Butler).

It is a companion piece to a proposal to give the governor authority to remove sheriffs failing to enforce gambling laws. That measure, also by Daugherty, was postponed indefinitely some weeks ago.

That action normally kills a bill. But Miss Mahoney said she plans to revive it later in committee at Lausche's request. She indicated it has not already been done because insufficient votes were in sight to report the bill out.

Has Mayor Authority

The governor now has authority to remove mayors derelict in duty. He has asked similar removal power over sheriffs to extend his gambling war throughout Ohio. He said commercial gambling had been allowed to run open in various parts of the state.

The judiciary committee also received a report from a three-member sub-committee on legislation to authorize a Lake Erie-Ohio river conveyor belt line.

The committee reported back a substitute measure almost identical to one the house commerce and transportation committee voted to kill Tuesday night by indefinite postponement.

Sub-committee members Sawicki and Carl D. Sheppard (R-Summit) approved the substitute measure. Senator Ford dissented and said he opposed the proposal. The full judiciary committee indicated it might act on the substitute next week.

Opponents of the belt line said house action all but doomed the project. It would have paved the way for construction of a 130-mile "rubber railroad" to haul coal and iron ore more cheaply between Lorain and East Liverpool. Spurs would have supplied Cleveland and Youngstown.

Concerted opposition by railroads and their brotherhoods doomed the bill in the house.

The national toll from recklessly driven automobiles threatens to reach new heights this year. New cars are more powerful and faster than they've ever been before. Old cars are more dangerous than ever before; thousands of them should be junked.

No driver ever intentionally gets into a scrape, not even the most reckless ones. They simply do not realize what hazards lie in wait for them. They take safety for granted—their own and the other fellow's. They've never thought the possibilities of danger in operating an automobile.

Before going out for that next spin this summer, set aside a few minutes to think about some of the things that could turn it into a disaster. There is no quicker, surer way to learn how to be a safe driver.

Auxiliary Patrol Unit Organized

LISBON, May 5—Fifty members of the Columbiana County Auxiliary Highway patrol, who have completed a 40-hour training course, attended a dinner last night in the Legion home. Each of the members, all World War II veterans, received certificates.

Speakers were Lieut. M. A. Mook of Columbus and Lieut. D. W. Unkle of Massillon. Talks were also given by Sgt. Homer Hall and Patrolman Frank Horvath of Massillon, and Corp. Edward Mallory and Patrolman C. P. Shanbaugh of Salem.

Sgt. James Bower of Massillon served as master of ceremonies at the dinner. Following the ceremonies, the organization of the auxiliary unit was held.

George D. Gonzales of Lisbon was elected captain. Other officers are: Leland Hollinger of Salem and Delmar O'Hara of Wellsville, lieutenants; Robert Kelm of Lisbon, adjutant; Leon Kuniewicz of Columbiana, R. F. Myers of New Waterford, Warren Nold of Lisbon, Chris Pallas of East Liverpool and J. C. Campbell of Wellsville, sergeants; George Sutherland of East Palestine, George Tullis of East Liverpool and Thomas Snyder of Columbiana, corporals.

The auxiliary patrol will meet the first Wednesday of each month. The June meeting will be held in Columbiana and the site will rotate among the county communities thereafter.

LAUSCHE AGREES TO HEAR SALEM CITIZENS GROUP

An official request for a truck highway, to by-pass the City of Salem by a northern route to include Routes 14, 45 and 62, will be formally presented to Gov. Frank Lausche at 3 p. m. next Wednesday, it was arranged today.

Gov. Lausche, contacted by telephone this morning by Mayor R. R. Johnson and Chairman George Chappell of the council safety committee, agreed to receive a party of Salem representatives at that time.

R. S. McCulloch will serve as chairman of the citizens group planning to present a request for state aid in the proposed highway, which has been approved in substance by 34 civic service organizations, city council, the city administration and the state highway department division at New Philadelphia.

Hope To Eliminate Trucks

Designed to relieve congestion on Salem city streets, particularly from trucks, the new highway would re-route through traffic north of Salem's corporation limits to points outside Salem on the south, east and north.

Although complete arrangements for the group to see the governor are yet to be made, Chappell indicated that city officials, representatives of many of the civic groups, the Columbiana county commissioners and township trustees would be included in the party.

Arrangements in Columbus are to be handled, Chappell said by Columbiana county's representatives, Rep. Clarence Wetzel of Lisbon and Senators W. H. Daugherty and Arthur Blake.

Chappell made it clear that the council committee and citizens group intend to keep the issue entirely clear of politics. Neither party organization has been asked to endorse the project, although both county chairmen have indicated support of the program.

Chappell is completing a booklet, containing the proposal in detail and resolutions supporting it by council and all other groups, for presentation to the governor. The brochure also contains newspaper stories of accidents resulting from the congestion and roads involved and also the complete detailed traffic survey made here by the state highway department a year ago.

The plan will require complete approval by the state because state and federal funds will be needed to finance construction of the by-pass. Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that Salem secure the support of the governor for the project, leaders believe.

Members From All Walks of Life

County Symphony Orchestra To Give Concert on May 15

Like young Lochinvar who came out of the west, about 15 Salem musicians came out of the west—and north—to Lisbon twice each month to help make the music of the Columbiana County orchestra.

The orchestra celebrated its second anniversary in March. It is composed of 65 musicians from many walks of life.

A benefit spring concert will be presented in the Salem High school auditorium on Sunday, May 15, with Director Arthur Wise scheduled to mount the podium at 3 p. m.

Wise, who has devoted much time to the development of the group, is supervisor of music in Lisbon schools. He also operates a farm near Lisbon.

The love of music has brought teachers, clerks, engineers, mothers, business people and factory workers to the Tuesday evening sessions. Orchestra members from Salem are shown in the top photo, left to right, Director Wise is shown raising his baton at right-center. A portion of the brass and reed section of the orchestra is viewed from the director's platform during rehearsal in the bottom photo.

Don Dusenberry, concertmaster and first violinist, works in the cash department of the Dornier Co. He also conducts the local Methodist symphonette and plays French horn in the American Legion Quaker City band. He formerly taught music in Cleveland and Alliance.

Mrs. Wilbur Schurmerberger, violinist, a housewife, also plays in the Methodist symphonette. She is a Junior High school student. She plays violin in the orchestra and clarinet in other instrumental groups.

Mrs. Sterling Jackson, violinist, is the wife of the manager of the Salem Kresge store. She is a graduate of the Detroit Institute of Music and is a former member of the Corps de Ballet of the Metropolitan Opera Co.

Mrs. Meredith Livingston, viola, combines the many duties of a farmer's wife with activities of the Music Study club and the orchestra.

Mrs. Carl Beecher, president-elect of the Music Study club, is a busy mother. Fellow orchestra members say she can sometimes be seen dashing to a rehearsal with her baby Deborah, in one arm and the cello under the other arm.

Mrs. William Wright is remembered as the popular cornetist who has entertained local audiences in

ABANDON HOPE FOR WATER IN EASTERN AREA

Salem Test Drilling In Egypt Rd. District Halted With No Success

Test drilling for water east of Salem, in the Egypt road area, ended abruptly Wednesday afternoon.

The drilling, suggested, located and carried out at the instruction of James W. Cummins, Ohio Water Resources board geologist, by request of council, was stopped because it was "obviously useless," according to Service Director Frank K. Wilson.

Wilson halted the drilling, being done by the Ohio Well Drilling Co. of Massillon, yesterday afternoon after Cummins concluded that "it is useless to continue in this area."

Hit Solid Rock

Wilson said the drillers struck solid rock at 63 feet after passing through silt, unproductive mud deposits and no gravel, as was believed present after Cummins's report to city council.

The drilling had been ordered by city council after Cummins, at council's request, had surveyed the Salem area and outlined potential well water supplies. He said in his report to council that the Egypt road area "will afford an emergency supply to alleviate the immediate shortage."

Council, upon hearing this report, directed Wilson to cease drilling in the southwest area, where the Salem course has been laid for years, and test in the new area suggested by Cummins.

No further testing will be done in the area, Wilson said, as Cummins feels that no gravel beds are present in the quantities he had originally predicted.

Salem's final course for water now apparently will await the decision of the Chester Engineering Co. representatives after the long-range program is gotten under way.

Council employed the Chester firm, at Wilson's recommendation, Tuesday night. The firm is expected to begin work as soon as the contract is signed early next week.

Meanwhile, the emergency water supply council seeks, apparently will come from the southwest area, as suggested and developed by P. S. Barckhoff, city engineer. One well there is producing excellently and a second is being sought.

Bonus Check Payments To Vets' Kin Shown

The greatest number of checks ever issued in a month to next of kin bonus applicants was reached in April with the mailing of 4,369 such checks totaling $1,128,760.49, it was announced by the Ohio World War II Compensation Fund office.

In one year and three days of production the office has mailed $1,506,508 checks, totaling almost $217 million. The veterans averaged $37.53 each.

To date, next of kin applicants in Columbiana county have submitted 219 claims, totaling $85,504.72. The eligible next of kin applicants include only the living wife or husband, or the living child or children, or the living parent or parents in that order. No others are eligible.

Spur Plans For Increasing Attendance At High School Event

A special drive is being made by the officers of the Salem High School Alumni association to increase attendance at the annual association banquet this year.

The event is scheduled for Friday, June 10, in the Masonic temple. The featured speaker for the banquet will be announced next week.

The Alumni association's purpose is to sponsor and further the education of local high school graduates through its annual scholarship awards. Winners of those awards will be announced at the banquet.

Officers of the association include: Royal Schiller, president; Albert Hanna, vice president; Donald Vincent, treasurer; Ruth Dales, secretary; Alroy Bloomberg, chairman of the executive committee.

Notices concerning the banquet have been mailed to association members. A speaker is yet to be chosen.

Tickets for the banquet sell for $2.50 each, including admission to the annual dance and the year's $1.00 membership fee.

To forestall a financial shortage anticipated in another year, the association is asking members of the alumni who cannot attend the banquet to mail their year's dues to the association.

End Of A Skirmish

Politicians devise curious and wonderful ways to deal with public issues. The skirmish over the Taft-Hartley act, featuring sound and fury that signified nothing, is a masterpiece.

Months had been consumed in arguing for and against the Truman administration's contention that union executives should be subject to none of the restraints they favor for everybody else.

It was quickly evident that the administration's case didn't hold water. In fact, without the hypocritical backing of certain northern Democrats who lacked the courage to speak their minds there would have been no case at all.

But the backers of Taft-Hartley act repeal couldn't surrender without losing face. So they hit upon the inspired strategy of surrendering a little bit at a time, on the principle that it wouldn't be noticed.

When Representative Marcanonio, the New York darling of the pinkies, proposed outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley act—which Mr. Truman had promised in his campaign—they shied away.

When the administration's substitute bill for outright repeal—the Lesinski bill—couldn't be passed, they turned to a substitute for the substitute. This was a triumph of back-pedaling worked up by Speaker Rayburn; it was voted down.

At that point, the Wood bill, which was the Taft-Hartley act under another name was voted up. In other words, the house of representatives voted to change the name of the Taft-Hartley act. But within 24 hours, the house voted not to change the name of the Taft-Hartley act after all. It decided to send even the name-changing proposition back to committee, where it probably will gather dust ad infinitum.

The Taft-Hartley act is still in force. It apparently will stay in force for a long time to come. This is a sock in the teeth for everybody who wanted it repealed—one of the strangest collections of political bedfellows ever found together. And it's a pat on the back for one of the least understood and most poorly represented minorities in the United States—working people who want their rights secured against abuse by both their employers and the union bosses who have been striving to organize a labor monopoly.

What Basis For Decision?

By committee refusal to let the proposal come to a vote in the Ohio house of representatives, the question of a Lorain-East Liverpool conveyor belt system apparently will go unanswered for at least two years.

It's unlikely there will be favorable action by the corresponding committee of the Ohio senate. And even if there were, it's unlikely the proposal's backers could find enough friends in the two houses of the general assembly to clear the legal obstacles to the system—specifically, the obstacles which can bar it from buying a right-of-way.

The basis for decision by Ohio legislators opposed to the proposal seems to have been almost exclusively the claim by railroad interests that the conveyor system would damage them. That was the basis when the canals tried to keep out the railroads. There's more to good legislation than blind defense of the status quo.

Because the fact is there's great significance in the conveyor belt idea. To its prospective users, the idea is potentially as important as continuous-line production in industry; in Ohio it might be the means of preserving the steel industry's competitive position in this state. Have the Ohio lawmakers thought about that? Or were they too busy listening to the opponents of the proposal to think about the proposal itself?

Good Money After Bad

Two Republican senators, Knowland of California and Mundt of South Dakota, say they offer amendments for Chinese aid to the European rearmament bill when it reaches the senate. They do not admit that China has passed the point where U. S. can save its Nationalist government.

In other words, they have faith in the power of material aid to undo the damage of diplomatic bungling. In that opinion they have much distinguished company. To a great degree, that is the faith behind most of the billions the United States has been sending abroad.

It represents an attempt to compensate with material wealth for grave miscalculations in the past—such miscalculations as failure to invade Berlin, bestowal of unearned booty on the Soviet union at the expense of China and Korea, and the too-speedy demobilization of U. S. military forces after the end of the war. The wealth of the United States is marvelous. But it isn't magic. It can't make China well and whole again. Nor is it likely to live up to its advance notices in Europe. If there were less dependence on wealth to buy security and more dependence on intelligence, the price tags wouldn't be so high.

The Stars Say

For Friday, May 6

OPPORTUNITY beckons for leaping ahead, with vim and ability, in launching projects and ambitions of more than mediocre significance. Constructive skills, bold initiative and aggressive attack would reach cherished goals of accomplishment. With this enterprise there should be careful study of possible pitfalls, delays, mainly through careless words, writings, contracts or other insecure tactics. Keep alert to greed and fraud. Misrepresentations could be costly.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may be stimulated to high and bold adventures, with attempts at organizing and launching new, cherished objectives, and with skill, energy, initiative and constructive plans. At the same time their energies, originality and strenuous attack may carry them into dangerous fields, in which they could be ensnared by false pretense and promises, by fraudulent agreements, writings or greedy associates. Read all documents cautiously lest hasty or too eager moves prove dangerous.

A child born on this day, should be adventurous, ambitious, enterprising and able, but its danger spot may be susceptibility to carelessness, over-confidence and faith in associates.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By WALTER KIERNAN

Herbert Hoover says our economy can't stand much more and he ought to know . . . he was around the last time we prospered ourselves into poverty.

Not that the Democrats are not grateful to Hoover . . . they won an all-expense trip to Washington with a 20-year stopover on his program.

But their budget of 45 billion dollars plus new tax proposals is beginning to look like "winner take all" sponsored by us.

Half of the new budget is for supporting the world but it is our happy privilege to get up all of it.

That means each of us is working for two and reports from Europe indicate that the other guy doesn't even like us.

Harry may know what he's doing but I hear that if anybody cries up behind him and said "hey buddy, you wanna buy an apple?" he'd faint.

New Way To Treat Scabies

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

In years gone by we have heard much talk about the seven-year itch. This is a condition which produces a great deal of itching of the skin, and it was thought that seven years were required to get rid of it. Now it can be cleared up quickly with proper treatment and, therefore, it would appear that the expression, seven-year itch, should no longer be used. We now know that this disorder is due to infestation of the skin with a tiny parasite. The disorder is known as scabies, and itching is the most outstanding symptom.

The parasite burrows or digs its way into the skin, and the female lays its eggs in these burrows. On careful examination, these burrows may be seen as little black lines on the skin. They are most easily noted in between the fingers.

Parasites Are Carried

Of course, when scratching occurs, the parasites are carried to various other parts of the skin. The skin may become infected, so that patients with scabies often have boils and many scratch marks. Furthermore, the parasites get into the bedding and clothing, and the disorder may easily be transmitted from one person to another. It is often found that all members of a family are affected.

The standby treatment for this condition still seems to be sulphur ointment. One of the difficulties with this remedy, however, is that irritation of the skin sometimes results from its use.

More recently a new preparation, known as gammexane, has been found quite helpful. This insecticide was developed in England during the war. It has been used to control chiggers, ticks, fleas, bedbugs and lice.

Two Out of Three

When the gammexane was tested on 100 patients with scabies, all were cured after from one to three treatments. In fact, in two out of three of the patients there was no sign of activity of the condition after a single application.

The gammexane is applied in the form of cream. It is non-toxic, non-irritating, and has a faint but not unpleasant odor.

Scabies is not a difficult disorder to diagnose and, once the diagnosis has been made, it would appear that the use of the gammexane would be worth trying from the excellent results thus far obtained from it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. M.: My nineteen-year-old daughter has swelling of the hands. There is no pain. What could cause this condition?

Answer: This condition possibly is due to some allergy or sensitivity, or to a circulatory disorder.

Your daughter is in need of a careful study by a physician to determine the exact cause of her difficulty.

FOOD PRICES SHOW LITTLE CHANGE IN U. S. THIS WEEK

By The Associated Press
Changes in retail food prices were slight this week, but appeared to be mostly upward.
Top grade eggs climbed one to four cents a dozen in several buying centers as unexpected local demand kept selling brisk.
The Agriculture department headlined eggs as one of the most plentiful foods in the nation this week—yet price support buying continued heavy.
The department explained that much smaller quantities than usual were going into commercial storage because handlers feared large new fall and winter supplies would make storage egg prices unprofitable.
Lamb edged higher as receipts of the old winter crop tapered off.

The spring crop was not expected to reach market in volume until late this month.

Demand for beef improved, holding prices steady to a little higher. Veal, in excessive supply for current demand, eased slightly in price. Pork was about unchanged.

Meat retailers in large markets from coast to coast reported an unexplained falling off in demand for smoked meats generally, and both smoked hams and bacon were a penny or two a pound cheaper.

Several vegetable prices were up somewhat from last week. Carrot shipments from California eased off, pushing prices higher. New potatoes advanced as the end of the Florida crop approached, despite heavy California arrivals. Cabbage, cauliflower and summer squash all climbed slightly.

However, most truck crops from nearby gardens were plentiful and selling at near-cost prices. These included radishes, spinach, scallions, kale, rhubarb and asparagus.

The quality of tomatoes, lettuce and strawberries showed such wide ranges that shoppers had a broad choice of prices. Fresh peas were as much as two cents a pound cheaper in some cities.

Greengrocers said Florida watermelons were not much in demand yet—but that buying was expected to soar in the next two weeks. Prices were still relatively high.

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food index, after weeks of declining, turned upward this week to 55.71 from 55.67 a week ago. The index, representing the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 general used foods, was still 17 per cent lower than the year-ago level of 56.88.

Brotherhood Stressed At Church Women's Program

"We cannot comfort ourselves with the Fatherhood of God, without accepting the Brotherhood of Man."

This was the keynote of an inspirational talk by Mrs. Harold A. Zealley to a group of Salem church women Wednesday afternoon in the Methodist church.

Sponsored by the Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service, the meeting was in observance of Interdenominational Fellowship day, with Mrs. Harry Loria in charge of program arrangements.

Using her theme, "Cooperation in Building a Christian America," Mrs. Zealley said, "It's a great thing to be a part of a great cause."

"What do we mean by a Christian America?" the speaker asked, then continuing, she said "Knowledge of the Bible is essential. This book should be in our schools, for it is the foundation of civilization and should be respected."

"There must be an interpretation of the Bible in terms of modern living," in the opinion of the speaker.

"It is hard to think of God as love when living in sub-standard conditions. This Christian America we so desire should have no sore spots, no glaring injustices," she said.

Mrs. Zealley expressed the thought that the uniting of various church groups in Protestantism should be an encouragement to church women. "Opposition is not our problem, but we are hindered by apathy, or tacit acceptance," she believes.

She stressed the idea that cooperation is important in building a Christian America. "The church was first in social work, and should not withdraw," Mrs. Zealley commented.

Mrs. W. P. Dockery of the A. M. E. Zion church was leader for devotions.

Mrs. L. E. Beery, president of the United Council of Salem church women, arranged the music, which included a vocal solo, "Thanks Be To God" by Mrs. O. A. Davis and a selection, "Teach Me To Pray" by a sextet from the Emmanuel Lutheran church. Mrs. W. J. Seeman was the accompanist for both numbers.

Representatives of the Christian, Emmanuel Lutheran, Holy Trinity Lutheran, Presbyterian and Friends churches attended.

The Methodist society elected the following officers:

J. Seeman as the accompanist; "Toasts to Daughters," Mrs. John Bauman; reading, "Two Mothers," Susan Kleon and Dolores Adams; monologue, "Life Gets Tedious—Don't It?" Dorothy Lutsch; reading, "Little Parables For Mothers," Mrs. Ronald Whippley.

Group singing of sacred songs was an enjoyable feature.

Mrs. Seeman was song leader, while Mrs. Agnes Yarian was the accompanist.

Gifts were presented Mrs. William Bodendorfer, Sr., who was the oldest grandmother present with the most granddaughters; Mrs. John Theiss, who had three daughters and one granddaughter in attendance and to Mrs. Ferrall, toastmaster.

Tall tapers in crystal lighted the tables. The programs in various colors were in the shape of a hand mirror and marked the places adding beauty to the scene. On the inside was a picture of Wistler's mother.

Mrs. Michael Fritzman was general chairman for the affair. She was assisted by Mrs. George Theiss, Mrs. Vincent Moore and Mrs. Rudolph Bodendorfer made the programs.

Members of the Martha circle had charge of the dinner, which was served by the men of the church.

Air-Conditioned Hats

MERGER of interest is the coming together of the half-hat and the whole net to make a hat-net for spring and summer.

The hat-net promises to keep heads cooler and hair tidier even in an open roadster or in a fiercely-competitive tennis game. White pique tennis visors, lined with green eye-shade fabric, combine with white nets of coarse mesh for hair control. This is also the idea behind the union of mesh nets and cotton half-hats; of nets and printed scarves which make scarf-nets. A scarf-net is a smartly-tied scarf attached to a hair-confining snood of mesh.

—EPSIE KINARD, NEA Fashion Editor.

These cool headliners for summer are half hat and half mesh net which keep the hair smartly confined. Red and white polka-dotted crepe scarf, tied at the side, is combined with a net of metallic thread to make a hem-hugging turban (top right). Motorist (top left) wears a net cap which has a ruffled blue-cotton visor-brim banded with navy ribbon. For active sports, the tennis player (bottom left) models a white pique sun visor which is attached to a snood-like net of heavy white nylon mesh. Headband size is adjustable to insure a snug fit.

Old-Type Engines Still In Air Picture; 10,000 Horsepower Turbo-Prop Hinted

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEW YORK—(NEA)—More than 55,000 persons saw a new aviation turbine, called the Typhoon, during the three days Curtiss-Wright displayed it at a midtown hotel. They marveled at its size and its appearance of power, but walked on with little idea of what they had seen.

One placard mentioned that a turbine wheel, shown separately, would absorb 8350 horsepower. That is more than twice the power developed by the most potent propeller-driver previously available, which is Pratt & Whitney's Wasp Major, a reciprocating (piston-type) engine that creates 3500 horsepower without water injection.

The visiting public was not told that the Typhoon has more than one such turbine wheel. The number is a military secret. Each wheel develops about the same power. More than half the power developed is needed to drive air compressors in the turbine, so the usable power delivered to a propeller is less than half of the total produced.

On the basis of published information, plus what any visitor to Curtiss-Wright's Span of Flight exhibit in New York could see, the Typhoon can probably deliver between 7500 and 10,000 horsepower to an airplane's propeller. This is from two to three times as much as any existing engine or turbine the public has seen.

The only guide that Curtiss-Wright has been permitted to publicize comes from an experiment with a B-17 Flying Fortress. A typhoon turbine was mounted in the nose. Counter-ballast was placed near the tail to readjust the craft's balance. The B-17 was taken into the air, using its regular four 1300-horsepower engines. Then the four C-8s were cut off, and the plane was flown with only the Typhoon for power. It was reported that it handled better with the Typhoon than with its regular engines.

During the war, great efforts were made to get a 5000-horsepower engine. They were unsuccessful. For lack of this, progress in super-heavy bombers was held up.

The Wasp Major is the most powerful engine yet put in production. Since this war, Curtiss-Wright has found a way to use previously-wasted exhaust gases to add turbine action to piston power and get 3250 horsepower out of the Turbo Cyclone 18.

This will be used in the Navy's P2V4 long-range patrol bomber, most modern version of the Lockheed T-28 Superfortress. It flew 11,236 miles from Australia to Columbus, Ohio, in 1946. It will be used also in the Curtiss-Wright "Flying Boxcar" cargo plane. Instead of using exhaust gases for added power or greater speed, they can be used to give 20 per cent greater fuel economy—to step up the range by 20 per cent—or to add between 40 and 50 per cent to cargo capacity.

Robert D. Grange, project engineer in the Wright Aeronautical Corporation's gas turbine division, thinks that such engines represent the top that is practicable in the piston-type field. The Wasp Major has 26 cylinders in four rows. Curtiss-Wright developed a 42-cylinder engine that never went into production. At that point, they got complicated.

But Grange believes that the development of very large planes might yet make it desirable to build turbo-prop engines even more powerful than the Typhoon.

The reciprocating engine, with or without turbine assist as in the Turbo Cyclone 18, seems to be the most efficient power source for air speeds up to 500 miles an hour. The turbo-prop, like the Typhoon, seems most useful in the range between 500 and 600 miles an hour.

At around 600 miles an hour, the propeller's tip is moving at about the speed of sound. Therefore sound waves have no chance to go ahead and prepare the air for the propeller's arrival. So the propeller loses efficiency.

Grange says that Curtiss-Wright's propeller division, and presumably others, are developing propellers for air speeds between 500 and 600 miles an hour, and are investigating "supersonic" propellers for speeds above that level.

If these investigations should prove successful, and something even better than the new swept-back blade should be developed, then reciprocating engines and turbo-pros probably would be reconsidered for high-speed planes.

But as things stand now, when it is desired to drive a plane faster than about 600 miles an hour—to get into and through the "sonic wall" which ranges from the 762 miles an hour that sound travels at sea level to the 664 miles an hour at 35,000 feet—it is necessary to move on to the more expensive jet propulsion.

Happy Is Kingdom Ruled By Children

NEW YORK (AP)—Since this is National Boys and Girls Week, it's a good time to do something for the boys and girls.

But what to do? Well, one thing we could do is ask Congress to pass a bill of rights for childhood.

There is a lobby in Washington for every other group in America, from the marijuana growers protective association to the society against the importation of foreign-made menhaden covers. Yes, they all have a voice—all except the children. So why not a lobby of, by and for the kids?

A GOOD CHILDREN'S lobby might be able to break up the worst kind of the world—the cartel of parenthood. As it is now, adults tell children how to behave, but children have no way in which to compel hare-brained adults to live in a responsible manner.

Congress could end this nonsense by setting up a national system of parents' courts—with children sitting as judges.

At present, Junior has no recourse from the stupidity of his parents. But if he could call the cops, and tell them into court to be tried by a child's stern sense of justice—oh, boy!

"Listen, Pop," says Junior, "I want you to tell the judge here whom you was boozing with the night you said you was going to the baseball game. And quit smirking. Mom, you tell the judge about that treckle-faced salesman you're so palley-walley with.

"You see, Judge, I got problems with both my parents. They're all mixed up. You gotta help me straighten 'em out."

And don't think the kid on the bench wouldn't make Junior's parents start behaving like parents.

CONGRESS MIGHT endow some schools for parents, too. It wouldn't hurt many parents to go to school one day a week, sit side by side with their own children—and learn about the world together.

Too many children are torn between two worlds—the world of ideas and fair play at school, the world of tension, bitterness and opportunism at home.

Personally, I think it would be a good thing if children gradually took over control of the world. If they weren't so kind-hearted, they would have long ago.

And why shouldn't they? Who commits most of the sins and crimes against mankind—children or grownups?

Well, then, shouldn't children rule adults, since adults are the most dangerous troublemakers?

Good men would be foolish if they all went to jail and turned the criminals free. And children have been foolish all these centuries to let themselves be tyrannized by adults—adults addled by their own childish frustrations.

Why do we say youngsters are the hope of tomorrow unless their parents are the despair of today?

Come, little children. Take the lead. And the world will follow.

Dulles Emphasizes Need For New Pact

WASHINGTON, May 5—John Foster Dulles said today, "War is highly probable" if the United States does not ratify the North Atlantic treaty.

Dulles, American delegate to the United Nations, made this assertion to the senate foreign relations committee in urging approval of the 12-nation defense alliance.

The diplomat told the committee it is dealing with a "totally different" world situation today than it was a year ago. The pact then was only being discussed, he said, whereas now it has been formally signed by each of the participating nations.

Thus to repudiate the treaty now, Dulles continued, would reflect a change in the American point of view and this would make other nations change their plans. "Cut of that would come a war," he declared.

Dies In Pen Chair For Holdup Murder

COLUMBUS, May 5—(AP)—Tears in his eyes, Ralph Reed died in the electric chair last night for the holdup slaying of a Cleveland Steel Company executive.

The 27-year-old condemned man showed little emotion when he walked the last few steps of his life to the old death chair in Ohio penitentiary.
However, his eyes moistened as he repeated the Lord's Prayer and the 23rd Psalm after Rev. K. E. Wall, the Protestant prison chaplain. Guards strapped him to the chair while Reed prayed steadily.

The black death mask was slipped over his head and the electricity was turned on at 8:03 p. m. He was pronounced dead at 8:10 p. m. by Dr. Richard Brooks, prison physician.
Reed was convicted of killing George Margulis, secretary of the steel firm during a robbery Feb. 6, 1948, that netted $80.

John Reed of Johnstown, Pa., the condemned man's brother was his last visitor yesterday.
Execution was set originally for April 1, after a review by the Ohio Supreme court. Later, Gov. Frank J. Lausche granted a temporary reprieve until last night.

Born in Salem, May 14, 1896, he was a son of Mr. and Mrs. George McQuiston. On July 3, 1913, he was married to Eva Pearl Hively of Columbiana, who survives in the home.

He was a baker by trade, having been in the bakery business at different times in Columbiana and Leetonia. In more recent years, he was a machine operator for the Harrold Tool Co.

Besides his wife, he is survived by four sons: Ralph L., Merle A., Earl L., and Louis E. McQuiston, all of Columbiana, R. D. two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Mathey of Columbiana, R. D., and Mrs. Viola Edith Freeman of Salem; a daughter by a former marriage, Mrs. Mary Ward of Kent; two sisters, Mrs. Grace Hickling of Salem, and Mrs. Edith Joseph of Linesville, Pa.; and five grandchildren.

Private funeral service will be held at Warlick funeral home in Columbiana at 2 p. m. Saturday in charge of Rev. Herbert A. Smith of the Presbyterian church.

Begin Housing Sale

MASSILLON, May 5—The sale of 235 housing units in the Walnut Hills project began here yesterday despite vigorous protests from residents of the project area.

The public housing administration is offering the units at prices ranging to $7,400 for double dwellings. Residents picketed the PHA with photographs showing alleged defects in the units.

Peace At Last From PERSISTENT ITCH!

No wonder thousands teased by itchy torment blew the hay that changed to formal. Here's quick action from first moment—a literal sense of peace that lasts and lasts. Looks to a positive soothing agent in a single base that stays on. Don't be content with anything less effective than Rosinol Ointment.

DAMAGE IN DOVER BLAST UNKNOWN; 1 DEAD, 2 CRITICAL

DOVER, May 5—The cost and cause of an explosion which wrecked the Hardisty Chemical Company's big plant here were still to be reckoned today. But the human toll stood at one workman dead, two others burned seriously, and five more with minor injuries.
About five hours after last night's blast ripped apart a two-story brick building, Samuel Bonifant, 49, of New Philadelphia died in Union hospital.

Robert Kline, 23, burned on the arms and legs, and Frank Rossi, 19, with third-degree burns on the lower half of his body, were in serious condition today at the hospital. Both are Dover men.

Three other Dover workmen were treated at the hospital and released. Still another three, and a fireman who was cut got first aid at the explosion scene.

There were about 45 night shift workers in the plant when the blast occurred a few minutes after 7 p. m. The firm makes cosmetics and products for use in plastic goods. The explosion occurred near a plasticizer where Bonifant, Rossi and Kline were working.

The cause, and the amount of damage will not be established until after several days of investigation. Walter Sommers, plant superintendent, said. Although unofficial estimates of the material loss were about $100,000, calculation was difficult because much expensive chemical equipment was wrecked.

The blast blew the roof off the building and the walls caved in. There were two explosions, a minor one then the heavy boom which blew out windows and doors of adjacent buildings. A fire which followed was brought under control promptly.

County Health Office Appointments Are Made

LISBON, May 5—Dr. B. B. McGuire, county health commissioner, announces the appointment of Mrs. Paul Kuhns of Lisbon, as X-ray technician and secretary to the new diagnostic and tuberculosis treatment clinic, and the appointment of Miss Helen Louise Munsell of Beloit as a public health nurse.

The former assumed her duties Monday. She formerly was employed by the state department of health, and by the American Airlines.

Miss Munsell, a graduate of Salem City hospital School of Nursing, will assume her duties May 16.

Dr. McGuire also announced that Miss Mae Zeitler, who has served as X-ray technician, will be retained through June to assist in vital statistics and correspondence, and after July 1 is hoped state aid will make an assistant secretary possible in the department.

Rayburn Playing Greatest Role In Labor Compromise

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON — (UP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas plays his greatest role today in the house of representatives where he has been a member for more than half of his 66 years.
Rayburn seeks to unite a party which is split wide open on key pledges of the 1948 Democratic platform. His compromise plan to obtain passage of the administration's Taft-Hartley act repealer repudiates the platform and makes Truman's public statements. But it may pull the Democratic party out of a hole. The Democratic platform promised more than the Democratic congress can deliver.
The speaker is full of party honors and political wisdom. His career is behind him in the sense that he neither expects nor wants to be nominated for Vice President or President of the United States.

Under those circumstances he could and did look Truman in the eye yesterday and tell him that some drastic changes would be made in the administration repeal bill. From the White House, Rayburn and several colleagues return to the Capitol. After conferences there, the speaker announced he would endorse a compromise repeal bill today, but that the Taft-Hartley act provision for presidential injunctions to prevent strikes against the national welfare would be kept about as is.
Labor leaders have hated and denounced the injunction provision. But only John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers will be turned entirely to a crisp by Rep. Rayburn's announcement. Lewis has bucked Taft-Hartley injunctions before this and come off second best. Any time the mine leader pulls a strike it reasonably can be made a matter of national welfare, and Lewis knows it.

There were four additional pickups from the Taft-Hartley act in the Rayburn compromise: Compulsory filing of union financial statements; requirements that employers and unions bargain in good faith; guarantees of free speech for employees; requirement that union officials sign non-Communist affidavits. This provision was broadened to include employers as well.

Much will be heard of a sixth new provision in the Rayburn compromise. It would establish a joint congressional committee to study labor relations. That is a sop to Truman who has been asking congress for such a committee since January, 1947. It also is a sop to unhappy labor leaders in the form of assurance that such a committee would seek some method other than injunction by which the nations as a whole could be protected against crippling strikes.

Ohioan Making Important Wildlife Studies For U.S.

By BRUCE BOSSAT
AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON—Tucked away in a quiet nook in the vastness of the Interior Department building, an Ohioan named Daniel L. Leedy is working at an ambitious task—to put new strength into the nation's fight to conserve its wildlife.

Since last December, the 37-year-old Leedy has been chief of the Wildlife Research section of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. As such, he is charged with coordinating a research unit program in which 14 land grant colleges and conservation departments in as many states are cooperating.

Prime goals of the program are training of personnel for work in wildlife conservation, research in proper management of fish and game resources, and the lending of technical aid to the solution of wildlife problems.

Leedy had served as a "unit leader" in the program before he took over as chief. He headed the unit at Ohio State University in Columbus from 1945 until coming here. Except for a three and a half year stint in the Army Air forces during World War II, Leedy has never worked at anything else but life problems.

Uses Training
And he even managed to turn his air force service to partial account in the wildlife field.

He got into aerial photograph intelligence by capitalizing on the military work he studied at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. That job interpreting aerial pictures of enemy movements and installations, troop movements, and the like.

Leedy was impressed with the amount of information you could get from the air, and he didn't see why the same technique would not apply in studying wildlife.

The method can be employed to count deer and other animals that might be hard to spot accurately from the ground; to study the condition of grass and forest cover and observe changes over a period of years; and for mapping through the use of aerial mosaics.

Leedy's chief claim to fame is his knowledge of the pheasant. He's written a number of scientific works on the pheasant, and probably knows as much as anyone about this favorite of midwestern hunters.

One of the biggest current hazards to pheasants is the power mower. Pheasants like to make their nests in fragrant hay fields in Ohio and elsewhere. Apparently the sound of the farmer's tractor doesn't frighten them away, and they are sliced to death by the mower's cutting bar.

Leedy says pheasant deaths from this cause have shot up 60 per cent in recent years. Right now researchers are trying to devise some sort of bar to extend in front of the tractor, with attachments that would drag through the hay and warn the birds to fly out.

He found out, too, that in nesting season pheasants don't like it wet. Bad weather has been another factor in the downward trend in pheasant population, which has, however, showed recent improvement.

Raised as a farm boy near Butler, Ohio, Leedy hasn't quite accustomed himself to living in a city of 100,000 or more—especially one that happens also to be the national capital.

Oppose Amendment
WASHINGTON, May 5—Senator John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) was one of 16 senators voting yesterday in favor of the anti-segregation amendment offered for the aid to education bill. The proposed amendment was defeated 63 to 18. Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) was not recorded as voting.

Good Old Days Recalled In Maxim's, Famed Eatery

NEW YORK, May 5—(INS)—The more the world changes, the more it is the same.

When Papa was a boy, a French actress named Gaby Deslys sat in Maxim's, the most famous restaurant in Paris and probably in Europe, and aided a hard-working playboy, King Manuel of Portugal, get himself made into an "Ex."

The late ex-King Manuel is probably the only man who ever actually got uncrowned in a restaurant, but Maxim's is full of dislocated royalty these days, says Louis Vaudable, the slim, dapper young Frenchman who is the principal stockholder of this famous Parisian lobster palace.

Another ex-king, who also gave up his throne for the love of a lady, the Duke of Windsor, and his Duchess are frequent patrons of Maxim's.

Quite frequently, said M. Vaudable with obvious Gallic enjoyment, a crisis of formidable proportions arises when both the Duke of Windsor and ex-King Peter of Yugoslavia and his queen arrive to dine at the same time.

"Always Maxim's has had a king's table for its royal patrons," said Vaudable, "and naturally, the ranking king occupies that table."

So King Peter, although Balkan, much younger and just as thoroughly "ex" as the former King-Emperor of the British Empire, gets the king's table while the Windsors must take a back seat at the second-best table.

"A situation of utmost delicacy," M. Vaudable said with a twinkle in his blue eyes.

Since Maxim's was founded in 1893, it has been the ultimate in elegance, gaiety and gastronomy—and once—in really high-class gold digging.

"But the gold-diggers, they are no more!" Vaudable declared with the proper touch of sadness for one mourning the passing of so venerable an institution.

"In this world, there is no more gold to dig," he explained. "The ladies, they are willing. But the gentlemen do not have what you call the rocks."

And anyway, Maxim's, under the guidance of Vaudable and of his late father, who bought its controlling interest in 1931, is—small we say—a bit more decorous than once upon a time.

"The kings and queens still come but even they must behave themselves," the proprietor said firmly.

He and his late Papa were quite shocked, even for worldly Frenchmen, when the redecorated Maxim's after they purchased it. For years, the banquettes had been upholstered in leather because, M. Vaudable said disapprovingly, guests danced upon them—as well as the tables!

"The contracting firm which did the re-upholstering in red velvet found a fortune," Vaudable said. "And it was a fortune in gold. Those were the days when gentlemen carried gold pieces, and a fortune in gold had slipped from many pockets and slid down the leather upholstery into the interior of the banquettes."

But gold was not all the workmen found in them that banquettes. M. Vaudable almost blushed to tell it. Tiens! Those workmen found a—would you believe it?—bushel basket of lingerie!

Such goings-on are simply not now tolerated at Maxim's. Gaiety today can be unconfined, only as long as it's refined.

And there will be great gaiety at Maxim's this summer, for this international institution is to have a delayed celebration of its fiftieth anniversary. It was in German hands in 1893, on the real golden anniversary.

But now from June 1 to 4, all Paris is to be on fete while Maxim's celebrates the anniversary of its founding.

Such famous patrons as the late and great J. P. Morgan, the elder; William K. Vanderbilt, Jay Gould and Jules Bache are dead and gone. But the indestructible Mile. Mistinguette and her famous legs will be on hand to help in the celebration, and so will many world-famous patrons.

TRUMAN SEEKING McCLOY FOR JOB CLAY IS LEAVING

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—President Truman is urging John M. McCloy, president of the World Bank, to succeed Gen. Lucius D. Clay as chief of the American occupation zone in Germany.

Clay's retirement from the job of military governor was accepted by Truman yesterday, effective May 15.

McCloy, if he accepts the appointment as close associates expect, will become the first American civilian high commissioner in Germany. He is a former assistant secretary of war.

Truman brought out in a statement that Clay's retirement coincides with the end of an era in post-war Germany. He said that the work "of moral and economic reconstruction" in the western zones has arrived at a point where the Germans "are about to obtain a greatly enlarged measure of political and economical responsibility."

The President praised Clay for having carried out "a prodigious task of administration" and declared he is being released from his job because of his own "repeated requests."

GRAFENWOEHR, Germany, May 5—(AP)—The U.S. armed forces in Germany said farewell Wednesday to Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Thirty-five generals, 11,000 troops and scores of airplanes participated in a review and tribute to the retiring military governor.

"Thank God, God bless you," said Clay, deeply moved. "In leaving the Army—this is my last review—I will always treasure the presence of you men on this field today."

He told the rows of soldiers, standing at attention, they still have a job to do in the cause of peace, and freedom for which so many died.

Rear-Adm. Paul L. Mather, above, of Westgate, Md., has been appointed by President Truman to be War Assets administrator, succeeding Jesse Larson. Mather has been with WAA since 1947.

Original Professor Quiz Laments Growth of Over-Sized Jackpots

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK—(UP)—The man who had the first coast-to-coast radio quiz program is asking himself a 64-dollar question these days. Whose idea was the whole thing, anyway?

Professor Quiz, nee Craig Earl, would be tempted to throw in the question book if he didn't have close to 1,000,000 questions filed away which would go to waste. He doesn't like quiz shows any more.

"They give away too much for too little," he said, moodily twirling his tiny mustache with the waxed ends.

The professor is a chubby, ordinarily cheerful man who was a physician and a professional magician before he went on the air as a quizmaster. Now he rarely ever uses his real name, and even refers to his wife as "Mrs. Quiz."

$25 Used to Be Big

He longs for the good old days when a $25 first prize had contestants bug-eyed. He went on the air with his show 12 years ago. Since then, he says with solemn pride, he never has given away an answer or a giant jackpot.

For six years he got along with that $25 first prize, then somebody upped the ante. The battle of wits, he said, became a battle for washing machines. And worst of all, the quizmasters started dropping liberal hints.

Professor Quiz isn't optimistic about the future of quiz shows. As a former lecturer on "The Art of Living," he feels the giant jackpots violate the rules of gracious living. "I can't imagine anyone having fun answering a question where a house and a car are involved," he said. "You'd hate yourself for life if you missed the answer."

There are only two bright spots, as the professor sees it, left in quizmastering. One is his deep admiration of the housewife contestant.

"Housewives are loaded with the kind of unrelated facts that come up on quiz shows," he said. The other bright spot in his work which he admitted grudgingly, was the enjoyment the radio audience got out of following the big money jackpots.

"It's like kibitzing a crap game," he murmured disapprovingly.

Rabbits Menace Food Supplies

By GEORGE McFADDEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia—(UP)—A great "grey plague" of rabbits in the vast paddocks of Australia is ravaging important world supplies of beef, wool and wheat.

The wild grey rabbit, Australia's old enemy, has in the past year multiplied his importance into a national problem with international aspects.

Generally good crop conditions in recent years have been his delight. Experts say that if widespread drought comes, the rabbit would get most of the surviving grass and herbage and Australia could lose millions of her 100,000,000 sheep in six months.

If not controlled, the rabbit invasion will affect Australia's capacity to contribute food and wool to economic recovery programs.

Drouths Are Problem

Localized drouths already have forced some graziers to move livestock to other areas, notably in Queensland. But reports published overseas that "millions" of head of livestock perished in the localized drouths could not be confirmed.

The war breached Australia's defenses against the rabbit. Local production of wire netting for rabbit fences, first line of defense, slumped when steel was diverted to armaments. Even before the war, much of Australia's countless thousands of miles of rabbit and dingo (wild dog) fences was inadequately maintained.

Sheep and cattle stations, some as large as small European countries, never fully regained manpower lost to the war effort.

Australia currently produces an estimated one mile of wire netting for every 100 miles needed.

Funds Lacking

Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley's administration has dipped into slim dollar funds to authorize import from dollar areas of approximately $320,000 worth of wire netting for the quarter ending March 31. This is about 1,000 tons, sufficient for 700 to 1,000 miles. Also authorized are 24,000 tons from Germany, France and Belgium. American fumigants like cyanogas and larvacide and French chloropicrin also will be imported.

Pastoral experts say that is a drop in the bucket; that between 100,000 and 300,000 miles of wire netting is needed.

The government also has established a rabbit study section in its council for scientific and industrial research under direction of a British biologist, Francis Ratcliffe.

Serious long-range effects of the rabbit invasion are feared because the pest invites erosion. Together with dry seasons and over-grazing, rabbits have helped the gradual degeneration of hundreds of thousands of square miles of highly stocked range.

Ordinary warfare includes digging and plowing out the rabbits, fumigating their warrens, trapping, use of poison bait, and dogs. But fences are the graziers' ramparts in this never-ending war.

Eat Through Trees

H. Hamblin reported that rabbits have eaten through eight-inch citrus trees near his property in the state of Victoria. G. Gilbey, a stock agent at Boggabri, NSW, said: "In some parts of this district, rabbits are just a grey, moving mass."

Farmers and graziers slaughter as many as 4,000 rabbits in a one-day drive, using sticks and dogs after driving the pests into an enclosure. Professional rabbiters are earning up to $180 a week, trapping as many as 1,500 rabbits at a time in water hole enclosures.

How many rabbits are there in Australia? This correspondent asked a top expert. He estimated at least one billion.

Variouly from six to 12 rabbits eat as much herbage as a sheep. Sixty eat as much as a cow and drink more water.

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified advertising columns.

PHILLIES WRAP FIFTH STRAIGHT WIN OVER CARDS

History In Making As Phils Turn Into 'Fightin' Club', Not 'Futile Phils'

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Phillys win five straight from Dodgers and Cardinals! That should rate a 21-gun salute and five-year contract for Manager Eddie Sawyer.

Hardly a man is still alive who remembers any such antics by the Phils. For years they were the doormats of the National League. Now, instead of the futile, they're the fighting Phils.

When the Phils acquired Eddie Waitekus and Bill Nicholson last December, the word went around, "if they only had some pitching." Sawyer has uncovered a one-man staff in Ken Heintzelman.

Ever since he hit the majors at Pittsburgh in 1938, the slender lefty never has been over the .500 mark. Now he's 4-0 for the new season.

The 33-year-oldster from Missouri has "arrived" with two victories over Brooklyn, one over Boston and a decision over the St. Louis Cards.

Ken Trinkle finally put out the uprising after three runs scored, leaving the Phils with a 7-5 edge.

As a result of the second straight decision over the Cards, the Phils have moved from the cellar to a fourth-place tie, only two games off the pace.

They're even talking pennant around Shibe park.

Johnny Sain came through with another complete winning game to make the Boston Braves look more like the club that won the 1948 pennant.

Sain was superb until the seventh, when he lost control of his curve. Chicago scored two runs and another in the eighth, but the Braves' four-run first inning attack on Dutch Leonard stood up for a final 4-3 edge.

Leo Durocher returned from his five-day suspension by Commissioner A. B. Chandler and things got back to normal at the Polo grounds. Johnny Mize hit a home run. So did Sid Gordon and Bobby Thomson as the New York Giants walloped Pittsburgh, 11-4.

Brooklyn belted over its "cousins" from Cincinnati, 5-1, with Joe Hatton doing the honors. Catcher Roy Campanella, now leading the league with a .469 average chipped in with two hits. He has hit safely in the last 10 Dodger games.

American league hitters gave the fences another workout, smashing 13 homers in four games. Comiskey park again took the worst pasting.

The weak (?) Washington hitters pummeled three homers to hit the Chicago White Sox, 8-7. But not until Floyd Baker, the Sox third baseman, hit the first home run of his seven-year major league career.

It was a 7-5 Chicago going into the ninth. Reliever Ernie Groth fed a home run ball to Ed Stewart and it was 7-6. Eddie Robinson was hit by a pitched ball and then Mark Christman swatted his third homer in three games to give Walt Masterson his first '49 decision.

Joe Gordon hit two into the stands and Dale Mitchell and Mickey Vernon each lugged one to account for all the runs of Cleveland's 4-3 nod over Philadelphia. Gene Bearden, with bullpen help from Al Benton, hung up his third straight win at the expense of Dick Fowler.

Vic Raschl and Virgil Trucks earned their fourth straight victories for New York and Detroit, respectively. Raschl breezed past St. Louis, 10-5, on a 15-hit Yankee attack led by Phil Rizzuto and Cerry Coleman. Trucks turned back Boston with three hits as Detroit clubbed Mickey Harris for a 3-1 edge.

Little Known Facts About Fesler, Ohio's Grid Tutor

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, May 5—(AP)—You realize, the minute you look or listen, that Wesley Eugene Fesler is a big time coach despite two incongruities.

To wit:
1—He's a decidedly handsome guy in a business in which some of the most successful mentors have not been matinee idols, and
2—He's brutally frank and optimistic, a far cry from the usual pigskin professor who gives evasive answers and moans about lack of material.

Back in 1929 and 1930 "Wes" was an All-America end at Ohio State. Now he's boss of the Bucks, and the boys who know him best will tell you that he's still an All-America from any angle.

Fesler is living proof that "life begins at 40." That's his age, and after one extremely lean year at the Buckeye Helm, and one above-average season, he's ready to go now with a fine crop of athletes who see a Rose Bowl at end of next season's rainbow.

If you think he's a stereotype coach, hiding his hopes under a flock of evasive answers, you should hear him talk of Vic Janowicz, his whiz sophomore from Elyria who was the "High school player of the year in 1947."

"Vic isn't as good as we expected," Fesler declares. "He's much better."

The other night at a banquet one of the audience asked:

"What are you going to do with Michigan next fall?"

Did Fesler evade the No. 1 question of the year? Nope, he had a twinkle—and also a glint—in his eye as he answered:

"We're going to murder 'em!" That answer alone was almost grounds enough to have the coaching fraternity make him turn in his membership card.

Although he'll be 41 come June 9, Fesler is still an athlete. No 'ne around these parts can match him at squash or handball, and he'll be in the low 70's on any golf course you can find. He's the nattiest dresser in the collegiate field, and anything resembling a receding hairline is years in the future.

At smoking he takes on all comers—cigars, pipes or cigarettes—and he whiffs away enthusiastically at each. His "kids," as he calls his players, think he's the best—in spades.

A few weeks ago he was driving by historic Hennicks' near the campus when Janowicz and another player and two girl friends emerged. Wes stopped, walked up to the two gridders and asked:

"Are you guys getting to be tea hounds?"

And Janowicz answered:

"It's your fault we were in there, coach. They have a big picture of you behind the soda fountain, and we just went in to admire it."

As Wes hands out football lore to his boys they listen—for they know he has the answers. Only three players in all OSU history, Fesler, Tippy Dye and Jack Dugger, have won nine letters.

Wes got three in football, twice making All-America; three in basketball, making the Western conference team; and three in baseball, where he became the only Buck ever to win the Potter run-making cup three years.

His name is carved deeply in the university's record books. He holds the stadium long-run record with a 99-yarder in a losing 18-8 game with Northwestern in 1929, and as a sophomore baseballer hit three homers and two doubles, batting in nine runs, against Illinois for the best one-game hitting mark.

He was born June 29, 1908, in Youngstown, graduating from South High in 1926. He was out of school a year before entering the university, which he attended five years because of a switch from engineering to commerce.

He played professional baseball with the Columbus Red Birds as part of the 1932 season, but quit the diamond game to start coaching at Harvard, where he stayed 10 years. He moved to Connecticut Wesleyan for a couple of seasons, spent a year in the office of strategic services during the war, became head basketball coach at Princeton in 1945, and in 1946 moved to Pittsburgh as head football coach.

Then he came to Ohio State, replacing Paul Bixler, as the university's fifth head coach in eight years. There he's working with his old Ohio State friend and teammate, Athletic Director Dick Larkins. And the chances are that Wes will be around quite a while. Larkins, his boss, sums him up with:

"Wes spends about 20 of his 24 hours on his job, for I know he dreams about it when asleep. He loves this university. It was here he met his wife. He's happy here, and we're happy with him."

"He's the most honest and forthright man I've ever known."

Golf Notes.....

As record May heat bore down on Salem Wednesday, the golf season looked like it was in mid-year trim. The Salem Golf course was jammed with "Wednesday-afternoons" yesterday and games were reported to be a bit better than is usual for this time of the season.

One of the outstanding performances turned in yesterday was that of Steve Ross, former Cleveland amateur champion. Steve, still in the training stages, he says, roared around in a solid 76, just four over par.

He found some difficulties, too, for his opponents, Lester Kille, Twing Seeds and N. L. "Putter" Walker challenge the fact that his handicap last year was 12.

Dr. R. T. Holzbeach is in good trim, too. He fired a creditable 84 yesterday and was pleased with the whole thing. He gave Bud Hone, his regular opponent, a bad time while he was at it.

Actually this Wednesday wasn't much more crowded at the course than a week ago, but the "official" golf season atmosphere was increased this week by the presence of Pro Andy Mocsary, whose pro shop is now open.

Probably the most-rehearsed golfer on the course these days is Rudy Schuster, who has been playing regularly right through the winter. His scores justify all the additional practice, too. Club Champion Walt Hiltbrand turned in a warm-up round yesterday and reported "fair" results.

Durocher Thrilled By His Big Ovation

NEW YORK, May 5—(AP)—Leo Durocher, who's probably drawn as many "boos" as anybody in baseball, had a hard time believing it was real.

The out-again-in-again manager of the New York Giants drew a tremendous ovation when he returned to his team yesterday. For the first time since he had come to the Polo grounds last summer he was a completely popular figure.

"It felt wonderful," he said. "There is just no word for it."

It was Durocher's first appearance with the team since he was suspended temporarily last Friday following charges that he had assaulted a Brooklyn fan at the Polo grounds the day before. The suspension was lifted by Commissioner A. B. Chandler Tuesday after a hearing.

Durocher still has to appear in

BIG CHANCE NEVER CAME FOR TED OR BYRON HORN, HORNE

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK, May 5—(UP)—When 33 sleek racing cars roll down the red brick straightaway at Indianapolis on Memorial day to get the green flag which starts them on a breathless 500-mile journey, two lead-footed dreamers with similar names won't be there.

One is Ted Horn.

The other is Byron Horne.

For Byron, it would have been the realization of an ambition. The young driver from Pennsylvania was in the 38th lap of his 100-mile test to qualify for the 500. Something went wrong and he crashed head-on into a brick wall.

As for Ted, he was killed in a crash at Du Quoin, Ill., last October. A gay, genial man, he had won just about everything in racing—but in 10 tries never was able to take this biggest one of 'em all.

Ted Horn had plenty of warnings before he rolled over a fence into eternity at the Du Quoin fairgrounds race track. But he had been born with a love for mechanical speed and never could get it out of his blood.

At 14 he had a "hot rod"—a souped-up Ford. And one year later he started his racing career. Ted was only 18 the first time he cracked up and was injured seriously at the Ascot speedway.

For two years he retired resisting the ever present urge until he could stand it no longer. He returned to the cockpit in 1930. Two years later he was injured again, his back punctured twice in a crack-up at Los Angeles.

And trouble continued to follow him at two-year intervals. In 1935 he went through a wooden wall at Lewistown, Pa., escaping with a plank driven into his right shoulder. And in 1937 he was nearly scalped in a five-car crash at Nashville.

But Ted had chosen his lot and he stuck to it. He was a real champion, too, head of all drivers for three years and holder of 68 individual track records.

Yet, never did he win the big one. Always it was a tale of tough luck.

His first year, 1935, the car quit after 365 miles; 1936, second because of a "slow" sign from his pit because of gas shortage; 1937, third, after starting in 32nd position, finishing only eight seconds behind the winner; 1938, fourth, because of overheating; 1939, fourth, with a radiator leak; 1940, fourth again as rain made the cars hold position.

In 1941, he had third again with a car that didn't have enough horses; 1946, third because of a broken magnet; 1947, third with oil tank trouble, and in 1948 coming home fourth.

So he waited for "next year." And for Ted Horn it never came.

It didn't come for Byron Horne either, as far as the big one at Indianapolis is concerned.

Strathman of Brush Cinch To Crack 10-Year Old Mark; Expect 30 Teams, Cope Says

Although the records in the Salem Night Relays are of a high calibre for a high school meet, there is one that is almost certain to be topped Saturday at Reilly stadium.

That is the discus mark set by Whitney of Akron Garfield in 1939 of 152 feet, four inches.

The lad who is almost a cinch to add his name to the record holder's list is Gene Strathman of Brush High school, South Euclid. In at least two major meets this spring he has chalked up new marks, his best effort coming in the Mansfield relays when he hit 173 feet, 10 inches, just short of the national scholastic record.

That record, incidentally, was set last Thursday by Darrow Hooper of Fort Worth (Tex.) North Side High school, with a heave of 176 feet 7 1/2 inches. Hooper is also the holder of the national shot put record of 39 feet, 10 1/2 inches.

Strathman braved horrible weather at the Wesleyan Relays last Saturday, when it rained throughout the meet. As a result his best throw was a "poor" 159 feet, but still good enough to set a meet record.

The discus will probably attract an unusual number of fans Saturday afternoon, hoping to see Strathman set a new mark. The finals in that event, along with shot put, pole vault and possibly high jump, will be completed during the afternoon to lend speed to the evening program.

Meet Manager Fred Cope, who has been jealously watching the perfect weather this week and hoping it holds through Saturday, announced Wednesday that the powerful Cleveland East Tech High team will definitely appear in the meet. It finished third in the Wesleyan meet.

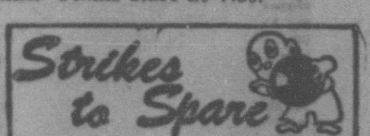

The entry list appears likely to hit 30 teams, Cope said. They will be competing for a group of relay trophies, along with the permanent meet trophy.

Trophies will be presented the winning teams in the 880, mile, two mile, four mile and medley relays. Second and third place teams in the meet will receive plaques.

Individual event winners will get gold medals, as will each member of the winning relay squads. Silver and bronze medals go to second and third place winners, while ribbons are awarded the other two places.

Meet scoring will count 6, 4, 3, 2 and 1 and points scored in the relays count the same as in the other events.

The meet will get under way at 2 p. m. with the 100-yard dash prelims. Finals start at 7:30.

Helen Polder was elected president of the Salem Women's Bowling association at the annual meeting Tuesday night in the V.E.W. hall. There were 109 members present.

Other officers named include: Vice President, Anna DeJong; secretary, Vivienne Wilt; treasurer, Mildred Kline; sergeant-at-arms, Mabel Hofmaster.

Medals and prize money were awarded the winning city tournament teams.

Also elected at the session was a "Bowling Queen." The honor went to Carrie Slagle, retiring secretary of the association. In her court were Betty Hull, Vivienne Wilt, Jennie Nicolette, Mimi Spear, Mabel Hofmaster and Zelma Dyke.

The queen was picked for having the following qualities: Dependability, promptness, courtesy, neatness, sportsmanship, congeniality, use of bowling etiquette, attendance at meetings and social affairs of the association and leagues, completion of work for the interest of the two groups.

The queen and her court will be honored at all meetings and social affairs of the 1949-50 season.

The new officers will take office Aug. 1.

Fifteen Salem teams left this morning to bowl in the Women's International Bowling Congress tournament in Columbus. The local squads bowl at 7 tonight and at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. Friday.

A number of the Salem women will attend the WIBC convention sessions, which start Saturday.

Seven Salem teams won a total of $214.91 in prize money in the recent Ohio State association tournament at Avon Lake, Ohio. The prizes were awarded the following: Grays Motor, $45.91; Hine Motor, $39.50; Eagles 2, $34.50; Browns Furniture, $32.50; Eagles 1, $25.50; Dan Dee Pretzel, $19.00; Browns Welding, $18.00.

Here's A Guy Who Knows Just How And Why You Lose

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, May 5—(UP)—Dr. Ernest Blanche, a bespectacled little gent, used to give lectures to O.I.'s in Italy on how you can't lick the odds in gambling.

"It was very discouraging," said Blanche, who knows all about the cube root of an equation and presently is the Army's chief statistician. "Right after I got through talking, the boys would dive for the nearest collar, get out the dice and try to prove I was wrong."

These experiences worried Blanche into some research that now has resulted in two books on gambling and threatens to run into a third. His present effort, quite logically, is called "You Can't Win."

"I had a devil of a time with more than a dozen publishers," he said. "All said they would put it out if I would change the title. The public, the publishers said, wants to be told you CAN win."

Ernie figures there are about 50,000,000 people in the country who play poker, bet on the horses, play the numbers, and the like, without ever knowing or caring about the odds.

Ernie's work is not guess work. He spends hours, days and weeks in his little study at his Chevy Chase, Md., home testing each of his theories.

No Cost There

That doesn't cost anything but time. But he learned the other, or harder way, too. He hung around the carnivals and concluded after playing some skin games that most of them are out to gyp the home folks out of their milk and egg money. He went to the race track (and

State Mobilizes Youth To Back United Nations

By DON JENNINGS

United Press Staff Correspondent

BALTIMORE (UP)—In the high schools and colleges of Maryland are several thousand students who, unlike Americans in general, know something about the United Nations beyond what they read in the newspapers.

They are members of United Nations Youth, which was set up by the United Nations Association of Maryland to generate extra-curricular study of the world organization and to foster international "co-operation and understanding" among young people.

The association believes the UN can succeed only if an informed public opinion is behind it. Its director, Mrs. W. H. Maltbie, has a vision that the story of the UN must be understood especially by young people.

"They are the ones who care more for peace, because they have been or would be directly affected by war," said Mrs. Maltbie, a widow who lost her only son in World War II and who dropped her school teaching position temporarily to be director of the association.

United Nations Youth has a student membership in 12 junior high schools, and about 60 senior high schools and 17 colleges of Maryland. The movement has the complete backing of the public, private and parochial school authorities.

In a well-rounded activity program aimed toward "accentuating the positive" of the UN, members of United Nations Youth set up their own school meetings, elect officers, arrange radio broadcasts, exchange ideas with young representatives of other nations. They even make a trip to Lake Success now and then.

"We try to gather every bit of information we can about the United Nations and to get a true perspective on it," Mrs. Maltbie said. "Too much data about the UN is put on the level of a person who already is studying on an international level."

Membership Growing
The association itself, whose president is Charles L. Marburg, vice president of the World Federation of United Nations Associations, has a rapidly expanding membership of citizens "eager to know what the UN is all about." The membership at present stands at about 12,000.

In an announcement inviting prospective members to attend a recent United Nations Institute in Baltimore, the association took the stand that the "conflicts" within the UN were brought to the public's attention while the "more important achievements" were minimized.

The "inside story" of the UN's accomplishments must reach the public at large, the association said, or the UN will be on shaky ground.

"It must succeed in Maryland or it can succeed nowhere," the institute announcement said.

"If we in Maryland do not support this program overwhelmingly, what can we expect of Paris, Milan or Chungking?"

It Takes Ten Years To Make Champ Dancer Good Enough For Berlin's Contest Pace

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN, May 5—(AP)—All over Berlin the young men are pirouetting in front of mirrors.

They take long walks in the brisk morning air. They balance for many minutes at a time on one leg. They are practicing for the dancing championship. It is the high spot of the young dance enthusiasts' springtime in Europe.

If they win in their home towns, they expand into wider fields. States oppose states, countries vie with countries.

It is pretty well regimented into classes. A youngster in his teens can't compete with a veteran unless he can win his way through the various classes to the championship flight. That seldom happens.

Says Edgar Neumann, 1947 champion of Berlin:

"Your champion dancer is always around 30 years old." Edgar is 34.

It takes ten years to make a dancer. . . the kind Europe and particularly Berlin means.

Eliminations have been underway since February for the grand climax—the championship for specialists this month.

In the first contests, Klaus Schulz, a student aged 23, paired with Helga Kartsburg, 20, to win the "youngster" title. Siegfried Klitscher, 28, an engineer, and his bride, Gerda, 23, won the "junior" crown.

Dance Both Steps

They had to dance the slow and also the quick fox trot, the English waltz, the Viennese waltz and finally the tango. These five dances comprise the traditional obstacle

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty urination with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give busy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

every instrument in the orchestra. While still in London with the Salvation Army, he organized a 75-piece orchestra.

Dan Holloway, trombonist and a Deming Co. employee, enlists rehearsals with his bright red shirts and his wise cracks. He plays in the Quaker City band, Symphonette; sings in the Salem Men's chorus and "Presbyterian church choir. He switches to "peck horn" for Little Dutch band performances.

Other Members

Other members of the orchestra, not present at this rehearsal, include: Lester Baldinger, clarinet, is a Mullins Co. traffic manager and member of the Symphonette, Quaker City band, Salem Men's chorus and the Methodist choir.

Nelson Bailey, clarinet, utilizes his sharp ear for piano tuning. He also plays in the Quaker City band and is active in other musical circles in the county.

Nancy Stockton, violin, and Jean

Leider, clarinet, are High school pupils and active in the Junior Music club.

Mrs. Richard Howenstine, first viola, of Homeworth, is a member of the Mile Branch quartet which placed third in the National Grange contest. Her husband plays first double bass and is the supervisor of school music in Sallenville.

William Rankin, of Leetonia, is the assistant director. Daughters Peggy and Polly are also members of the orchestra. He is employed in the Deming Co. purchasing department.

Mrs. James Davis of Lisbon, whose husband is in The Salem News advertising department, is librarian for the orchestra and plays clarinet.

Miss Geneva Zimmerman, who visits homes in this area and instructs physically handicapped children, is secretary of the orchestra and plays cello. Harold Sleeman, a Lisbon engineer, plays violin and is treasurer of the organization.

Rigid Enforcing Helps Baltimore Clean Up Slums

BALTIMORE (UP)—Tenants and landlords get no special favors when they are brought into Baltimore's unique housing court for failure to correct improper living conditions.

Magistrate Harry Kruger wants to clean up the city's slums. Through impartial application of a strict building code, he has made hundreds of homes fit for human occupancy.

But Kruger, the judge responsible for enforcement of a code that makes it a criminal offense to permit improper housing, has an idea that the secret of his success may cost him his job.

Kruger doubts that he will be reappointed to the housing court bench. He says you can influence a lot of people as housing court judge, but you don't necessarily win political friends.

Holds His Ground

Not that it worries Magistrate Kruger. As long as he's on the housing bench, he intends to be fair but rigidly firm.

"My friends meet me on the street and lots of times advise me to get out of this field," Kruger said. "Some of them say it will ruin me. Some say it's bad politics to have to be fining people for housing violations. All right, it is. Someone has to do it, and this program must succeed."

"Lots of good people and civic leaders tell me I'm doing a fine job, and that they're behind me and the whole housing program. I appreciate what these people say, but I have been in politics long enough to know that the people who don't like what we're doing in housing court will work against us every day, and not go on to other things and forget us."

Many Fines Levied

Opened several years ago, the housing court was set up to standardize procedure formerly handled far less effectively by police courts. Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., made Kruger, then a magistrate-at-large, the first judge of the housing court. Kruger has since levied some $11,000 in fines, acting on about 600 housing violations and eliminating more than 200 outside toilets and 400 faulty trash and garbage containers.

Kruger doesn't show favor to tenants. He's just as strict with tenants who create health hazards as he is with landowners who fail to meet the requirements of the housing, health, fire and sanitation laws.

A few appeals have been taken to higher courts, but Kruger has been upheld in most of them.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — This is an ABC on the new way for landlords to figure their case if they want permission to raise rents.

The government last night issued a formula for them. It divides landlords into two groups:

1. The small one. He has a place with one to four dwelling units.
2. The large one. He has a place with more than four units.

This is how the formula works for them:

The small landlord. He gets a rent increase if his net operating income is less than 25 per cent of his gross income. He'll get an increase bringing his net operating income up to 30 per cent of his gross income.

The large landlord. He gets an increase if his net operating income is less than 20 per cent of his gross income. He'll get an increase bringing his net operating in-

WHAT ARE GROSS income and net operating income? Gross income is his total income before expenses. Net operating income is simply what he has left of his gross income after (1) paying expenses—including taxes—and (2) making an allowance for depreciation on his property. For example: Jones, a small landlord, got $1,000 in rent from his four apartments. That's his gross income. His expenses for keeping up the apartments, including taxes, plus an allowance for depreciation, came to $800.

The $800 was his operating expense. Since he got $1,000 in gross income, he has left $200. That's net operating income. In other words: Total income, minus expenses, leaves net income.

(Note: A small landlord will not be allowed more than 21 per cent of his gross income for depreciation; a large landlord will not be allowed more than 16 per cent of his gross income for depreciation. Here's an example of a small landlord who can ask for a rent boost and how he figures it out: Take Jones again. He had $1,000 gross income, $800 expenses, and was left with a net income of $200, which is only 20 per cent of gross income. But he's entitled to a 30 per cent net income. What does he do? He multiplies the expense ($800) by 100 and divides the result (in this case $80,000) by 70 and gets $1,143.

That $1,143 represents a rent increase of $143 a year over the $1,000 rental Jones got before. So now his gross income is $1,143. His expenses are $800, and his net income is $343, whereas it used to be $200. So that $343 gives him a 30 per cent net income on his gross income of $1,143.

IN THE CASE OF a large landlord, the formula goes like this: Multiply the operating expense by 100 and divide by 75 (not by 70, as in the case of the small landlord.)

Note: It was pointed out that a small landlord gets a boost so that his net income—if it's now less than 25 per cent of his gross income—shall become 30 per cent of his gross income; and if a large landlord's net income is under 20 per cent, he'll get a boost so it becomes 25 per cent.

But what of the small landlord whose net income already is 25 per cent, or the large one whose net income already is 20 per cent? Do they get boosted up to 30 per cent and 25 per cent? No.

But doesn't that mean the landlords who now are making less than these people will wind up making more? Yes. That's the way the formula is.

If you're a landlord and think you're entitled to a rent raise under this formula, get a petition from your area rent control office.

If you're granted the increase, it starts from the date you filed the petition, not the date on which the government finally acts. Why?

Because petitions may pile up in the rent control office, awaiting action. So a landlord, due to no fault of his own, would lose money unless his increase started from the day he filed his petition.

A tenant must be notified of a proposed rent increase before the area rent office can grant it. He can appeal the area rent decision to the regional and national offices.

JUNIOR HIGH NEWS

A variety show by homeroom 7D talent highlighted the Junior High school assembly last week. Marilyn Dodge was mistress of ceremonies.

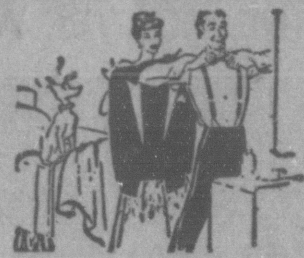

Gloria Andrews, in costume, sang "I'm a Lonely Little Petunia in an Onion Patch." Rosemary Helman, Beverly McGaffick, Mary Lou Eiswerth, Eileen Sommers, Jane Myers and Martha Whinery presented a black-face minstrel number, "Pick a Bale of Cotton."

"Confess" was the title of the piano solo by Grace Brown. A comic fight scene was staged by Bob Montgomery, Jim Gow, assisted by Ronnie Shaffer, Stanley Coskey, Gail Hanna and Eddie Rice.

Jerry Roberts, Bob Winkler, Eddie Rice and Jimmy Gow sang "Sweet Adeline" barber-shop quartet style, and "Cruising Down the River" was sung by Gene Zeppernick.

The concluding attraction was a pantomime entitled "Hisses and Kisses" with Bob Winkler narrator. The cast included Bob Lutsch, Shirley Greenawalt, Joan Lesch, Ronnie Shaffer, Pat DeJanc, Elinor Hinton, Helen Kornbau, Gail Hanna, Jeanette Bailey, Carol Shepherd, and Margaret Alexander. Marilyn Dodge was stage director.

Calcium is the most abundant mineral element in the human body. The body of the average adult has been estimated to contain about two and one-half pounds of calcium.

Boyle's COLUMN

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The poor philosopher says:
An adult has a sense of money. But a child has to grow up to it. Money isn't as funny to a child as it sometimes can be to a grown-up with a sense of perspective.
A friend of mine earns his living in the hours between dusk and dawn. One day his small daughter came to him and said, "You know what the other kids call you?—the night watchman."
Before he went to bed each morning, my friend had a habit of putting his change in his pocket on the bureau top. Then he would joke:
"That's what they paid daddy to do."
One day his daughter said to him: "Don't we ever make more than five bucks a day?"
It was only then that he learned his daughter had joined a social class above his own.
On another occasion he forgot to put some change on the bureau top. Before his daughter trotted off to school, she shook him awake and said:
"Why don't they pay you more regular?"

Another friend of mine has a timid son whom he is trying to make into a rugged citizen.
When he complained he had been beaten up by his schoolmates, his father said:
"The next time you throw the first fist."

A few days later the boy, who was in the third grade, came home and told his father he had thrown the first fist when attacked.

The proud father wanted to know what happened.

"Well, it was a second-grader," his son said.

His disappointed father, hoping the boy's adversary was at least bigger than he, then asked, "what happened?"

"Well," his son replied, "she said mean things about me."

No man ever died of admiration.

A woman with a mirror is never without a critic—or an admirer.

The world is a golden round. Life comes full circle. No one can cheat you except yourself. And no one in the final showdown can reward you except yourself.

The hardest thing for an honest man to do is to admire himself. But he never quits trying.

A platitud is a pasture of a bovine mind.

Vitamins will never be really healthy until they can take people three times a day with or without water.

CAUTIONS STEEL INDUSTRY SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, May 5—(INS)—The magazine Iron Age cautioned today that available evidence indicates that steel order volume in the third and fourth quarters of the year will not support the present high input rate.

Meantime, it said there are enough orders on the books and enough coming to support the present input rate of 97½ percent, or close to it, until mid-year at least.

The national metalworking weekly explained that a part of the present order volume from steel customers is a hedge in case a coal or steel strike shuts down the industry or greatly curtails output.

It observed that if steel is not adversely affected by labor trouble later, it may be that this extra steel will become inventory that can be worked off later in the year at the expense of new orders.

Turning to the labor situation, Iron Age said that it looks as if steel management is going to put up a stiff front on wage and fringe demands from both coal and steel unions.

It reported that most officials are against a fourth wage round, ex-sive social security concessions and pension demands.

The magazine said that with the outlook for the steel industry indicating that unusually high operating rates are over for awhile, some steel people were of the opinion that now is the time to take a strong stand.

FEPC BILL FACES DEFEAT IN OHIO

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, May 5—(AP)—Plans to replace the compulsory FEPC bill with an "educational program" were reported today as senators prepared to vote on the Lausche-backed measure.

The reports came from the Democratic side of the senate. A split in majority ranks might permit a substitute bill to carry on the floor with Republican support. A similar attempt failed by a single vote in the house March 22. The bill then passed the house, 70 to 61, with two votes to spare.

Senators scheduled a vote on the highly controversial bill only a week after Gov. Frank J. Lausche called for early action. It popped out of the senate labor committee with a few changes from the house-approved version.

They would require a fair employment practices commission to follow court rules of evidence at hearings on charges of discrimination in employment. That would permit the record to show the nature of rejected evidence and what it proposed to prove.

Commissioners conducting investigations also could not participate in decisions of the other four commissioners. Other senate committee revisions were minor.

Senate Looks Again At Education Bill

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—The senate, working toward final action on a $300,000,000 federal aid to education bill, took another look today at a proposal to strip out funds for almost half the states.

Senator Tydings (D-Md.), sponsor of the amendment, said nearly $100,000,000 could be saved by eliminating aid "for states that don't want it and don't need it." The bill provides that grants to the states to help pay teacher salaries and other school operating expenses shall range from $5 per child to slightly over $29, depending on the annual income payments in the states.

An effort by Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) to write a civil rights amendment into the measure went down to defeat, 65 to 16, yesterday.
It would have denied aid to states in which public schools do not admit pupils without regard to race, color, creed or national origin.

CAN WATER LEARN?
TESTS SAY MAYBE

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Water does something that resembles learning.

It even imitates the mental quality called understanding, says Dr. H. M. Johnson, Tulane university psychologist.

More startling, water seems to have a very long memory.

The experiments to support this were made by Dr. N. E. Dreyer of the National Bureau of Standards. For 20 years Dreyer alternately froze and thawed samples of water enclosed in glass tubes. The water was pure and the tubes very clean, also sealed hermetically.

After a few freezings these water samples no longer froze until their temperature dropped close to zero, Fahrenheit.

In some cases one sample of water preferred a different temperature for freezing than the other samples. The largest difference between these preferences was nearly 20 degrees, Fahrenheit.

Dr. Johnson says that scientists have known for a long time that non-living systems, such as water, can learn, remember and forget. But because this is usually slight and doesn't last long, psychologists have assumed that only living beings have memories.

He explains that the water samples did something very like learning when they lowered their freezing temperatures.

Their long memories were indicated by the fact that once the water samples had "learned" a low temperature, the lapse of time between freezings did not make them forget. Even a lapse of months failed to make a difference in the lower temperature.

"I have no objection," said Dr. Johnson, "to saying that the sample of water had come to understand its task. Those who do not like to say so, should recognize from Dreyer's experiments that non-living as well as living physical systems behave according to their past experiences, and thus should no longer assume that changes in learning behavior necessarily mean 'understanding'."

Dr. Johnson made his report to the southern society of philosophy, and psychology.

DAMAGE UNKNOWN
IN FURNACE BLAST

YOUNGSTOWN, May 5—Metal spewed from Republic Steel Corporation's No. 4 blast furnace in a break-out and explosion, which rocked the city last night, was still too hot today to permit an estimate of damage, officials said.

The worst explosion since Republic's No. 3 blew out in 1942, the incident brought a deluge of calls to newspaper and radio offices at 8 p. m. Tuesday. The explosion sent clouds of smoke and steam into the sky and attracted throngs of spectators. City firemen and a fleet of ambulances sped to the scene but officials reported no one was injured.

Damage will run into thousands of dollars and executives said a major overhaul may be necessary.

Newspaperman Hurt

YOUNGSTOWN, May 4—(AP)—Byron Williams, 78-year-old publisher of the Weekly Youngstown Journal, was in critical condition in a hospital today as the result of an automobile accident.

He suffered a broken leg and a possible skull fracture yesterday when struck by an automobile while covering the primary election.

Communists Have Troubles These Days, Can't Trust Anyone Because Of FBI Deals

By INEZ ROBB
NEW YORK (INS)—If I were a Communist, I would be perspiring freely these days and looking over my shoulder so frequently as to require a swivel neck.
In whom, I ask, can an honest Communist, working like a dog to destroy the "imperialist-capitalist-monopolist" United States of America, place his trust?
Twice, within the space of a fortnight, two "comrades," trusted and respected members of the party for years, have turned out to be "slimy stool pigeons" (I am indebted to the Daily Worker for this term) working hand-in-glove with the FBI.

To date, the two most damaging witnesses in the conspiracy trial of the nation's top eleven Communist leaders have been a man and a woman who, until they appeared in court, were esteemed party functionaries.

Well, sir, you could have knocked the eleven-man American Politburo, now on trial, over with an Imperialist feather when it quickly developed that both this man and woman had, for years, been merely pseudo-comrades, in their pitching for the FBI every second they belonged to the party!

It shouldn't happen to a Communist dog!

But it has. And the greatest question for patriotic Americans as well as the Communists is this: How many more loyal citizens has the FBI infiltrated into the party ranks?

It is nonsense to think that the role begins and ends with Herbert A. Philbrick, 32, the staid advertising man of Melrose, Mass., who for nine years made like a Communist in Boston and environs, while reporting every move to the FBI. Or with Angela Calomiris, the young Greenwich village photographer, who over a seven-year period worked her way up from party post to party post while telling all to Edgar Hoover's men.

What the FBI has done twice, it has probably done innumerable times. I do not think it is too optimistic to hope there is a legion of honest Americans masquerading as Communists infiltrated into the party from coast to coast. It's awfully good to feel that, after all, as a nation we ain't so dumb as the Communists always try to make us look.

The infiltrators infiltrated! In a grim way, it is reminiscent of the old barber-shop favorite "Who takes care of the care-taker's daughter when the care-taker's busy taking care?"

Even if the FBI has shot its bolt with these two witnesses, no one will ever know. And that is the gnawing seed the FBI has planted in Communist ranks. It has sowed the destructive seed of suspicion among the comrades.

Whom can a poor, harassed Communist trust any more? The man in the next seat at the party rally? The woman just in front of him at the Marxist lecture? The Comrade with whom he is walking his picket beat? The party member with whom he is roughing-up a cop?

Trust them, after the Philbrick-Calomiris testimony? Nonsense! He's lucky if he can trust himself. Whom can a man, allegedly dedicated to the violent overthrow of his own government, trust when the underground has just been cut out from under him?

Saved by a Can Opener

Mrs. Shirley Palmer, a 26-year-old polio victim, smiles at her husband, Ralph, as he brings red roses to her Pullman bed in Chicago. Palmer used a can opener to operate his wife's portable respirator for eight hours when it broken down on a transcontinental train. The couple was en route from Los Angeles to Ithaca, N. Y. Firemen in Omaha provided them with a new respirator.

Nothing underscores the importance the government places on the trial of the American Politburo for conspiracy to advocate destruction of the American system by violence more than its decision to reveal how the FBI keeps check on Communist activities.

I cannot honestly write that the defendants have begun to look askance at each other—yet! But, after all, whom can a Communist, even a commissar, trust in these trying times? When will one of the eleven arise and shine as a Federal witness?

Things are tough all over these days, and doubly so when the Comrades discover that for years the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been listening in on the party lines.

QUIBBLE ON SITE FOR MILITARY'S OHIO CEMETERY

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Brehm (R-Ohio) said today the army has notified him it prefers a site eight miles north of Lancaster, Ohio, on U. S. Route 33 for a proposed national military cemetery in Ohio.

Army officers reported this site "far superior" to others inspected in a field survey two weeks ago.

They told Brehm that preliminary examination indicates these advantages for the preferred site:

First—A tract of 210 acres of beautiful, rolling land, with more than a half mile of the tract adjacent to the highway and virtually all of it visible from the road.

Second—A tract eight miles east of Lancaster on U. S. 22, in the direction of Somerset and on the north side of the road.

Third—A point 10 miles east of Lancaster, also on U. S. 22, but situated on the south side of the highway.

Fourth—A location in Ross county. Army officers reported this site "far superior" to others inspected in a field survey two weeks ago.

Success for the proposal would bring Ohio its first national cemetery. Although it ranks high both in total population and number of veterans, it has never been able to obtain a cemetery.

Army officers listed these other possible sites in order of preference:

Second choice—A tract eight miles east of Lancaster on U. S. 22, in the direction of Somerset and on the north side of the road.

Third—A point 10 miles east of Lancaster, also on U. S. 22, but situated on the south side of the highway.

Fourth—A location in Ross county now leased by the federal government to the Ohio National Guard as a rifle range.

The Army told Brehm that while the latter site is already government property, they considered that the No. 1 location has such superior advantages as to justify necessary land purchase.
